

Training and Education

Keep your competitive edge

Having trained and motivated staff is essential for achieving the top level performance that makes your lab competitive.

But every day you are challenged by staff turnover, the need to acquire additional skills so you can integrate new technologies, and pressure to improve lab performance while keeping up with new regulations and scientific developments.

To help you meet these challenges, bioMérieux has designed a full range of training courses suited to all levels and positions that will enable you to:

- Increase staff performance and efficiency at the workbench
- Boost staff motivation and commitment
- Reinforce your lab's brand image

Training and Education

Flexible training course programs

We have created a program targeted to 3 different learning levels (Fundamental, Advanced and Expert) around 2 themes (Products and Education) to ensure that you receive a solution tailor-made to your lab.

You and your staff will train with our specialists and recognised experts in the field. A combined learning approach provides you with a choice of classroom sessions and distance learning (e-learning and webinars*), or a combination of the two, for easy accessibility and scheduling.
